

Wallick Investments Business Continuity Plan

May 2022

As a Registered Investment Advisory firm with fiduciary responsibilities, Wallick Investments, LLC has taken deliberate precautions to safeguard client information and insure a continuation of service to those clients in the event of an emergency.

Securities industry regulations require that our brokerage firm vendors inform their clients of their plans to address the possibility of a business disruption that potentially results from a power outage, natural disaster or other event. FOLIO^{fn} and Charles Schwab each have comprehensive business continuity programs in place. Their plans provide for continuation of client portfolio safety. In the event of various types of interruption to Wallick Investments' normal operations, client portfolios remain allocated and balanced as when the event occurred. Wallick Investments, while endeavoring to recover physically, will maintain contact and management from our backup location. Should disaster befall our offices at 1122 Lady Street, Suite 810 (including fire safe failure), Wallick Investments would relocate to 705 East Spring Road in northeast Columbia 14.8 miles away, and proceed to recover digital records stored offsite and remain in contact with client files and portfolios at each client's custodial vendor. All client information is retained by the appropriate custodial vendor named above, minimizing any delay in service, provided Wallick Investments has computer internet access at our secure ancillary facility. In the event of an emergency, Wallick Investments' internet access is diversified with 3 separate internet options at the ancillary facility, which is also backed up by a gas generator. In addition to cell service, the landline at the ancillary site is 803.736.4485.

Business Continuity & Contingency Planning

Securities industry regulations require that brokerage firms inform their clients of their plans to address the possibility of a business disruption that potentially results from a power outage, natural disaster, or other event. Folio Investments, Inc. has a comprehensive business continuity program in place, which we review, update and test on a regular basis. The plan provides for continuation of client service in the event of various types of interruption to our facilities and services, although obviously we cannot plan for or guarantee against all contingencies.

Our policy is to respond to significant business disruptions by safeguarding employees' lives and firm property, making a financial and operational assessment then quickly recovering and resuming operations while protecting the firm's books and records.

Examples of potential scenarios that our plans address:

A power outage. Our primary facility has multiple layers of power supply, including battery and diesel generator power supplies, which address this contingency.

Our primary call center becomes unavailable for any reason. We are able to transition to remote locations and continue to answer calls.

External threats or damage to our primary facility. We can transition to our back-up facility with some, but in many cases minimal, disruption to services.

No contingency plan can eliminate all risk of service interruption. In creating our Business Continuity & Contingency Plan, we make certain assumptions regarding alternative facilities being accessible, sufficient personnel being available, and external organizations including securities markets and government agencies being operational. If these assumptions are not valid under particular circumstances, we are prepared to evaluate possibilities for minimizing the disruption to our services feasible as events unfold and will promptly provide clients with information about how to access their funds and securities.

We update our Business Continuity & Contingency Plan as needed and evaluate the plan at least annually. We will continue to post an updated summary of our plan on our website. You may also obtain our current Business Continuity & Contingency Plan summary by submitting a written request to:

Schwab's business continuity and contingency planning

Securities industry regulations require that brokerage firms inform their clients of their plans to address the possibility of a business disruption that potentially results from power outages, natural disasters, or other events. Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. has a comprehensive business continuity program in place, which is reviewed, updated, and tested on a regular basis. The program provides for continuation of client service within minutes in most cases.

Here are a few examples of what might occur if Schwab were to experience a business disruption of varying magnitude:

If one of our telephone service centers became unavailable for any reason, calls would be immediately re-routed to our other service centers across the country.

If we had a power outage in a particular region or business district, telephone and electronic communications would be immediately and seamlessly re-routed to alternate locations for the duration of the outage.

In the event of a public health crisis that resulted in a high rate of employee absenteeism, Schwab would focus available personnel on critical business functions that directly support client needs. Additionally, we would enact our workforce continuity plan which includes social distancing and other policies to limit exposure.

Comprehensive plans are maintained to facilitate timely restoration of account services in the unlikely event of a technology disruption. These plans are tested regularly to ensure their viability.

While no contingency plan can eliminate all risk of service interruption or temporarily impeded account access, we continually assess and update our plans to mitigate all reasonable risk.
